Property Description

Bosques de Doña Rosa House This jewel of a home, with a perfect size of 350 sqm, is entirely Feng Shui. A two-floor, independent residence, it sits on a 325 sqm property. Built by an architect for personal use, it abounds in attractive, personalized architectural details. The modern front façade consists of the two-car garage door and block made of Pizarro stone and one of cement. One is a taller, light grey, vertical rectangle; the other is a smaller, darker, rectangle. The former has four horizontal rectangles for windows in the bottom, through which a warm, yellowish light is visible at night. Behind these two attractive stone blocks, tall walls with windows can be seen; thus, the interior has light and privacy. The façade covers the full width of the house. Behind the rectangular windows, a bridge with rocks below leads to the main entrance, where a reddish wood door with a handsome stainless steel handle greets you.
