Property Description

This newly constructed home is located on one of the premier and prime ridgelines in Manuel Antonio, and possibly the Central Pacific coast of Costa Rica. Located within a private farm, this home has walking access to a secluded beach that is only known to locals. The home itself has four bedrooms and four bathrooms. The home also has two full kitchens and an oversized two car garage that could easily be converted into another fully functioning apartment. The home has a large rooftop terrace to view the stunning year round sunsets, or for entertaining guests and friends. The quality of construction, craftsmanship, and finishes are of the highest quality and no corners were cut to spare costs. The property right now is functioning as two separate apartments, but also has the potential to easily function as a four bedroom luxury rental income producing property. The rooftop terrace has a large Jacuzzi and the property has room for constructing a swimming pool.
